GLOBAL PRIVACY NOTICE*

This Notice explains how, when and why we collect and use your personal data when you interact with Fragrance Oils.

'Personal data' is any information or set of information that can identify you as an individual such as your name, address, telephone number, email address as well as any other information about you that Fragrance Oils may obtain from you directly or indirectly.

We are committed to being transparent in the way we collect and use your personal data and how we protect it. We also recognise your need for reasonable control of your personal data.

This is why this Notice explains you in details:

- Who is responsible
- Application of this Notice
- What personal data we collect and how we use it
- How we protect it
- Your rights
- Other important information you need to know

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

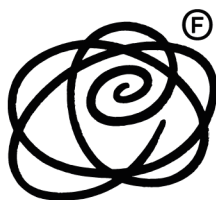

The Data Controller is the legal entity which is responsible for the personal data collected from you. It determines the means and the purposes of the processing of your personal data, that is how, when and why it collects and uses your personal data. Fragrance Oils ("we", "us") is a multinational company operating around the globe. The Data Controller for your personal data will depend on who you are:

If you are a visitor of this website or an investor, the Data Controller is Fragrance Oils Limited with its registered office at Eton Hill Industrial Estate, Eton Hill Road, Radcliffe, Manchester, M26 2FR ("Fragrance Oils").

If you are a customer or a supplier, the Data Controller is the legal entity that manages your business relationship with Fragrance Oils. This information can be found on the invoice or purchase order you receive or in the agreement you have entered into with Fragrance Oils.

For any other individuals, with the exception of employees and contractors working on Fragrance Oils sites, the Data Controller is the legal entity that manages your relationship with Fragrance Oils. This information can be found in the agreement you have entered into with Fragrance Oils or can be obtained from your contact person at Fragrance Oils.

We are registered with the Information Commissioners Office, the UK's Data Protection Authority.

APPLICATION OF THIS NOTICE

This Notice applies to you when you interact with Fragrance Oils in the course of a prospective or ongoing business relationship, when you visit our websites, when you use the technology we make available to you (e.g. when you visit a Fragrance Oils site) or when you connect to certain platforms, applications or other solutions under our control or when you join any offline or online events organized by us or lastly when you apply for a position with Fragrance Oils. For any other individuals, the collection and use of your personal data may be subject to a specific privacy notice. Please reach out to your Fragrance Oils contact jamie@fragrance-oils.com

WHAT INFORMATION DO WE COLLECT AND WHAT DO WE DO WITH IT?

We collect personal data in two ways:

- Directly from you
- Indirectly, through other sources

Directly from you

We may collect and use personal data that you provide us when you interact with us.

For example, your business contact details, including your full name, contact details, your role within your company and your work experience, the country where you work, the products and services that are of interest to you and your company, your opinion and preferences about a product, your communication preferences, your feedback about our services or our organisation.

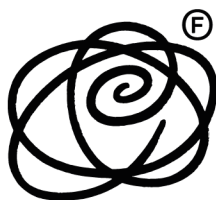

We also collect the information that you provide to us when you use the contact forms on our website or when you contact our media relations or on paper forms that we ask you to fill during events such as fairs or other marketing events you participate in.

If you contact us for recruitment purposes, we may also collect and process other personal data, including: qualifications, employment history, interview notes and any other information you have provided to us in your curriculum vitae and covering letter and any other information you provide to us during an interview.

During the recruitment process, we will use this information to: assess your skills, qualifications, and suitability for the role you are applying for; keep records related to our hiring processes; and comply with legal or regulatory requirements.

Indirectly, through other sources

We also collect information about you indirectly, for example when you browse Fragrance Oils websites, subscribe to our feeds on social media, or otherwise use our network infrastructure and the technology we make available to you. We collect logs about your use of the network, our website (e.g. your view or click on specific content or links or when you click on social media plugins) or the platforms, applications or other solutions we ask you to connect to. We may also collect information

We do not sell your personal data to third parties.

HOW IT IS PROTECTED – SECURITY OF YOUR PERSONAL DATA

We consider your personal data as confidential information. We deploy technical and organisational measures to secure your personal data and ensure that it is protected from unlawful access, alteration and loss. Organisational measures mean for example that we ensure that only the persons who need to do so for business purposes, have access to your personal data. Technical measures mean that we perform regular checks on our infrastructures but also on our service providers to ensure that they comply with Fragrance Oils security policies.

YOUR RIGHT

You are in control of your personal data.

Right to access and to correct. You have the right to request a copy of the personal data we hold about you by contacting us. We make regular checks to ensure we keep your personal data up-to-date. However, we need your help in doing this, so please contact us at jamie@fragrance-oils.com if you want to correct personal data that you have provided us with.

FRAGRANCE OILS

SCENTMAKERS SINCE 1967

Right to object and to restrict. You have the right at any time to object to the processing of your personal data (e.g. when you do not wish to receive direct marketing communications or newsletters from us). Under certain circumstances, you also have the right to obtain the restriction of the processing of your personal data (e.g. until an inaccuracy in your personal data is corrected by us following your request).

Right to erasure. If you no longer wish us to process your personal data, you may contact us at jamie@fragrance-oils.com. We may however retain certain of your personal data for compliance with applicable laws and regulations and in accordance with our data retention rules.

Right to lodge a complaint. We make our best to be transparent, protect your personal data and offer you as much control as we can. If however you deem that we did not do it in compliance with applicable privacy and data protection laws, you can contact us at jamie@fragrance-oils.com. You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the data protection supervisory authority in your country or in the country where your Data Controller is located. In the UK, the competent data protection authority is the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) and they can be contacted by following this link.

Right to control Cookies and other technologies on our websites. When you first visit our websites, you are asked to consent to the use of cookies and other technologies. You can manage your choice at any time. Please visit our cookies policy to learn how to keep control of your online activity.

Right to withdraw your consent. If our processing of your personal information is based specifically on your consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent at any time.

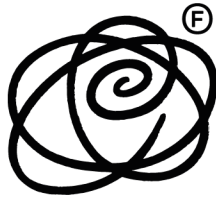

OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Data retention

We retain your personal data for as long as it is necessary for each of the purposes outlined above. We may however retain certain of your personal data for compliance with applicable laws and regulations (e.g. for tax and audit purposes) and in accordance with our data retention rules. Where it is no longer required to retain data that can still identify you, we will either erase, anonymise or aggregate it so that you may no longer be identifiable as a single individual.

In determining the relevant retention periods, we will consider the following factors:

- our contractual obligations and rights in relation to the information concerned;
- legal obligation(s) under applicable law to retain data for a certain period of time;
- limitation periods in accordance with applicable law(s);
- our legitimate interests;
- (potential) disputes; and
- guidelines issued by the relevant data protection authorities.
